

BULL-E-TIN NO 4 – “WATTA-GATE” – THE SCANDAL

The True Story

Local Bulls investigatory agents are now able to release top secret documents on the scandals and cover ups that are “Watta-gate” . Following are the horrendous stories of crime and deceit that go to make up this infamous tale.

Bulls Masters Games head of coaching Mal Watts’ performance was investigated thoroughly following the last games in Alice Springs 2006 and needless to say that the results of that fateful trip certainly required investigation – and weren’t very good either.

“Watta-gate” being the code name for the investigations.

Below is a list of the findings (in no particular order of importance) :-

- Underhanded back-hand payments were made to one player who shall only be know as “Drinka”, to “tank”, and “tanked”, well, he certainly got.
- A spy was put into the Bull camp to frustrate the performances of the “Ger”, at one stage it was feared that he had been kidnapped and held hostage in an unknown tent, but in the end was able to release himself from the treacherous clutches of the beautiful but dangerous “marathon” woman.
- “Consta” Tuesday Bull revealed that “shaving down” assisted wind drag; his shaver then disappeared in an obvious ploy to slow him down.
- A friendship blossomed with Bull’s umpire Davidson, yet, the team continued to lose, when confronted, coach Watts stated that he “did not have ual relations with that umpire”
- Bull “Zulu” had numerous drinks spiked in an attempt to enhance his performance
- The Thai blend of accompaniments to the natural oysters had unknown ingredients added while “Erecta” had his back turned, causing unusual swelling in the nether regions.
- Magic gloveman “CEO’s” glasses were destroyed so he misjudged balls in the outfield
- A certain catcher (alias “Rocket”) was paid off by Watts to grease gloves so that the ball wouldn’t stick for any catches
- “Texta’s” prepaid was discontinued.
- The sacred Bulls ring was infiltrated by special secret agent Murray from Todd to find out information for coach Watts re back stabbing and bitching, however, Bulls players out smarted Murray and sent him on his way – cigarette in hand.
- Ex Pres “Frogg” still reeling from a lack of suitable cigars received drink poisoning from an unknown source – possibility was the Bloody Marys mid afternoon.
- “Inkura” lost and dazed one evening was unable to find his way back to the “ring” - ending up somewhere else (wherever that is)
- “Accounta” lost track of the scores
- “Slug-a” was inconsolable and distraught when his personal gear bag was messed up and left completely out of alphabetical order; to the point where “there - there’s” and “big hugs” had to be had to console him.
- “Unpredicta” became predictable
- “Indestructa” self destructed
- “Responsor” and Pres of the Bull’s had his Ipod stolen and was unable to get into the zone before games without his Mikis Theodorakis relaxation music – rendering him almost unplayable.

As well as the above, questionable signals and teams were selected, players played out of position and obviously unfit to play at times – the question remains un asked – has coach Watt’s taken a leaf out of the Mark Williams’ coaching book and played youth too soon to get the early round draft picks?

“Watta-gate” still unsolved.